Variolink Esthetic: customers are highly satisfied

Survey reveals high customer satisfaction with luting composite from Ivoclar Vivadent

A survey conducted in three European countries and in the US found that Variolink Esthetic users are highly satisfied with this luting composite. They particularly like the product's esthetic and adhesive properties and its ease of handling.

Eight hundred dental professionals in Germany, France, Italy and in the US participated in the survey. They provided detailed information about their experiences with the light and dual-curing luting composite from Ivoclar Vivadent, which has been on the market since 2014. The results were very clear: On average more than 90 per cent of the people surveyed were satisfied or highly satisfied with this product.

Many attractive features

The material's main strengths, such as exceptional esthetics, excellent adhesion and easy handling, as well as numerous other features and benefits are highly appreciated. The survey participants also praised the easy removal of excess and the good consistency of the product. Furthermore, they all confirmed that they had not seen any postoperative sensitivity in the cases in which they had used the luting composite.

Continued use in the future

Depending on the country surveyed, 97 to 99 per cent of the questioned dentists said that they would continue to use Variolink Esthetic. More than half of them said that they would recommend this product to their colleagues.

Esthetic luting composite

Variolink Esthetic is an esthetic light and dual-curing luting composite for the permanent placement of demanding ceramic and composite restorations. In combination with Adhese Universal and Monobond Etch & Prime, the product ensures clinically exacting cementation of sophisticated restorations. The composite can also be used with the proven Syntac and ExciTE F adhesives.
